The Journal of Dermatological Treatment has expanded from 60 to 80 pages per issue, which permits us to provide a larger number of publications on various issues concerning dermatological treatment.

In this issue, we provide several publications on corticosteroid treatment from pharmacology to clinical innovation. Several developments in the treatment of acne will be highlighted. Therapeutic possibilities for some genodermatoses will be given. Photoaging and skin cancer are of an ever growing concern; diagnosis, surgical and pharmacological treatment will be presented. Regarding infectious diseases, the focus will be on warts and pediculosis.
